CHIANG SEALS UP NEWS ON STILWELL ROW

By Associated Press

Dispatches from Chungking today clearly indicated that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has imposed an increasingly severe censorship on foreign correspondents in the wake of the recall of Gen. Stilwell.

Liang Han-Chao, Chinese minister of information, said there would be no comment from Chungking on Stilwell's recall, which he termed a purely military matter.

"There is no political issue, then?" a correspondent asked.

"No," interjected Foreign Office Spokesman Dr. K. C. Wu. "President Roosevelt has made that clear."

Liang denied a suggestion that the Chinese government had taken the attitude that if the correspondents did not like the increasingly severe censorship they could get out of China.

No mention was made of the resignation of Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss. President Roosevelt said there was no connection between the departure of Gauss and Stilwell.

Lloyd Stratton, AP correspondent back from unoccupied China, in a lengthy article states that "it would be largely up to the American forces to win the war in China, with the aid of the British and Chinese in that order."

Stratton stressed the growing belief that Gen. Chiang is more interested in preserving his political hold on China than in fighting the Japs.

Dead Jap Flier Blasts Cruiser

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 1 (AP)—A dead man was at the controls of a Japanese bomber which damaged the cruiser Australia, killing the captain and 18 others, during the Leyte invasion.

Alex Cann, Netherlands government movie photographer who was an eyewitness aboard the Australia, said it wasn't a suicide attack.

"The Jap Betty came through a terrific barrage out of control and with smoke already pouring out," Cann related. "The plane hit the forward funnel, bounced onto the bridge and skidded into the sea. The bridge went up in a sheet of flame."

Archduke Otto Leaves U. S. Secretly

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today in a New York dispatch that Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the throne of Austria, has left the United States secretly by plane for Europe.

B-29, apparently from a newly developed base in the Marianas Islands, appeared over the capital but left "without attempting attacks"; that several four-engined planes were over the city; that at least one plane raided a factory district throwing workers into confusion.

The reports all agreed this was around 1 p. m. Wednesday (Tokyo time).

One broadcast, giving detailed instructions on combating fires, said, "An enemy plane suddenly raided part of the Kanto region," an important industrial area covering the entire area around the capital and embracing several prefectures.

"Several enemy four-motored bombers" roared over the capital at 1 p. m., but were driven off, the first Tokyo report said.

A later broadcast said:

"Latest reports disclose only one enemy plane, a B-29 bomber, and not two, as believed earlier, appeared over Tokyo early this afternoon." Half an hour later, the broadcast continued, "without attempting attacks, the enemy plane fled in a southerly direction."

Japanese warplanes were declared in a Manila dispatch broadcast by the Tokyo radio to have sunk an Allied cruiser early this morning (Philippine time) in "an effective raid against enemy war vessels in Leyte Gulf."

U. S. 10th Corps troops began closing a vise on Japanese concentrations on the northern shores of Leyte Island, where they were expected to make their first big land counterattack against Gen. MacArthur's men.

Japanese planes raiding American installations steadily decreased as Adm. Halsey counted up at least 2594 Japanese planes and probably as many as 2846 destroyed by his carrier pilots over the Western Pacific between Aug. 31 and Oct. 31.

Cmdr. David McCampbell of Los Angeles, naval ace, led the way with 30 planes to his credit, shooting down nine in less than two hours as he helped chase a Japanese flight home to Manila.

The valiant light carrier Princeton accounted for eight ships and 186 planes—a record for its class—before it was sunk in eastern Philippine waters.

Canadians Battle Nazi Big Guns for Dutch Isle

By Associated Press

Canadian troops battled today against massed artillery, machinegun and mortar fire across the 1100-yard South Beveland island causeway to flooded Walcheren island, and Berlin said the Allies, striking from the north bank of the Schelde estuary, had begun amphibious landings on Walcheren's south shore.

The landings were made at Vlissingen (Flushing), and the Allies were assaulting heavy Nazi guns controlling entrance to the long channel leading to the vital port of Antwerp, the Germans said.

The Allies to the east reached the Maas river north of captured Capelle and about 14 miles west of Hertogenbosch.

Allied armor pressed toward the Geertvrouwenberg bridge north of Tilburg, one of the main enemy escape routes, and other forces driving from Breda were within a few miles of the Moerdijk bridges, 12 miles downstream.

The Allied front now extends all across Southwest Holland. The German 15th army, fleeing across the Maas, was expected to make its next major stand somewhere on a line from Rotterdam to Arnhem along the Neder Rhine.

U. S. Seventh Army troops in the south of France advanced yard by yard through the Vosges foothills, taking several more villages.

Russian tanks, artillery and infantry poured through a 60-mile wide break in German defenses between the Danube and the Tisza rivers. Soviet motorized infantry smashed heavy detachments from three sides of Keesemet, while other Red Army troops battled savagely in the streets of this third largest Hungarian provincial city, 44 miles southeast of Budapest.

In East Prussia, where heavy artillery duels were reported, the Russians routed German reconnaissance forces north of Grosstrakken.

British Eighth Army troops in Italy improved their Ronco river beachhead south of the Po valley stronghold of Forli.

On the Fifth Army front the Germans counterattacked heavily south of Bologna, but were thrown back.

The German high command has announced its forces had evacuated Salonika, principal Balkan seaport and second city of Greece.

Allied headquarters disclosed earlier that British patrols had reached the city. A pall of smoke has hung over Salonika several days as the German carried out demolitions there.

German people and army last night that "I have decided to become your leader" and urged them to help overthrow Hitler.

The speaker, broadcasting on a wavelength not normally used by any German station, ridiculed Berlin reports that he had committed suicide after the abortive attempt on Hitler's life July 22.

Bay State Cheers Dewey

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH, REPORTER JAMES J. DELANEY
Solon Charges Candidate Truman Splitting Party

A crowd of more than 5000 persons wildly hailed Gov. Dewey of New York as the next President of the United States as he greeted them from the rear platform of his special train as it halted in Pittsfield en route to Boston. He was greeted as the train rolled in by Gov. Saltonstall and Dist. Atty. John W. Haselton. Gov. Saltonstall introduced him to the cheering throng.

'$1000 Club' Again Target Tonight

By AUSTIN LAKE

ABOARD THE DEWEY SPECIAL, Nov. 1.—The "$1000 Club," which President Roosevelt yesterday admitted he originally suggested, will be one of the themes of Gov. Dewey's slashing attack on the New Deal in his Boston address tonight. His advisers said he would discuss the question of who will outbid the "$1000 Club" for control of the Democratic party. The club, whose existence has been attested by letters of solicitation on the stationery of New Deal leaders and which promises special privileges and a special voice in New Deal government to those making $1000 contributions to the Democratic campaign committee, has become one of the major targets of Dewey's attacks.

Democrats Fear Sen. Walsh Will Not Speak for Ticket

The question of whether the dispute between Sen. David I. Walsh and Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, will prevent the Massachusetts Senator from delivering a scheduled radio address tomorrow night, was worrying Democratic leaders today.

At his Clinton home Sen. Walsh told Boston American Reporter James J. Delaney, who scored a beat on the clash between the two Senators, that he knew nothing about being scheduled to deliver a radio address Thursday night.

While officials of the Democratic state committee would not say definitely that Walsh would speak, one party leader was quoted as saying he was confident the address would be delivered.

The uncertainty of Democratic leaders was seen in the fact that while WBZ-WBZA has been reserved at 6:15 Thursday night and WNAC at 7:15, neither period has been definitely assigned to Walsh.

The dispute between the two Senators, which threatens to split the Democratic party in Massachusetts, was brought to light by the Boston Evening American in an exclusive story four hours before any other newspaper.

"If Truman is trying to wreck the Democratic party, he is doing a good job of it," was the Walsh statement given at his Clinton home to James J. Delaney, Boston American reporter, and flashed immediately over wire services to all newspapers in the nation.

The controversy burst into flame when Truman termed Walsh an isolationist, but added that the Democratic party still hoped to reform him.

Read the blast, Walsh thought, for a while and, although not retracting a previous endorsement

VOTE NO 3

ON QUESTION 3

Biennial sessions have saved $1,810,000 in legislative costs alone in the past six years. Unfold additional millions have been saved by eliminating the political spending of election year sessions and through financial controls made possible by the biennial system. Let's continue to keep taxes down by voting "NO" on Question 3.

Committee for the Continuation of Biennial Sessions
Harvey O. Tunner, 9 Maple St., Andover, Mass.

"Fellow citizens, Pittsfield agrees that this is the time for a change," was Saltonstall's simple greeting, met by prolonged yells of applause.

Dewey greeted the forenoon crowd as "neighbors" and brought a tremendous ovation for Saltonstall when he declared:

"One of the things we could do best for our country would be to give it the kind of government Lev has given to the State of Massachusetts. Is there any question he will be the next Senator from Massachusetts?"

On the national issue Dewey declared:

"I should like to start the biggest house cleaning in the history of Washington and you could guess who would head the list, Hopkins, Perkins or Ickes.

"I don't care which goes first. We can't go ahead on the record of promises which for 12 years have never been kept. We must restore unanimity and confidence in government."

The Administration is so split, Dewey said, that its Senate leader (Sen. Barclay of Kentucky) had to rebel against the head of the party and resign his important post.

"We have a tremendous job ahead of us," he continued. "As I said in my radio address last night, the Administration has to be judged by its record and not its promises no matter how often repeated."

"On the record is the total lack of understanding of the means of how jobs and opportunities are created. Despite unlimited spending for seven years, the country still had 10,000,000 unemployed when the war created jobs."

The candidate was joined on the train as it left for Springfield and Worcester by a large group of State G. O. P. leaders. Mrs. Dewey was presented with a large bouquet by the Springfield city Republican committee.

Mrs. Dewey, retaining her modest role, stayed in the background during his appearance on the platform, but had completely won all the girl reporters who accompanied the nominee.

She was simply attired in a fitted black coat over a purple dress and wore a black hat, black shoes and carried a black purse, the only ornaments for her clothing being a double string of pearls and pearl earrings.

Dewey appeared again in Springfield at non and in Worcester later from his train platform.

A demonstration and parade awaited his arrival in Boston at 4 p. m.

One of the biggest throngs yet to welcome the New York Governor is expected to fill South Station and Dewey sq. and to jam the short parade route to his

A young Army Air Forces pilot who dodged capture for five months behind the German lines came home today to find his mother dead, two of his sisters in the hospital and his brother in the headlines because he was shot down over Holland.

But making up for some of the heartbreaks was the tear-streaked happiness of his fiancée as the two planned immediately for their long-delayed wedding to take place Sunday, Nov. 12.

Last April 1 was an unlucky day for Co-Pilot Lt. Douglas J. Eames, Jr., 24 of Beacon st., Hyde Park. His Liberator bomber was shot down and all 10 members of the crew bailed out over enemy territory.

His father and his fiancée, Miss Bea Maddocks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maddocks of Royal st., Canton, were notified by the War Department that he was missing in action.

Now that he has made his way back to this country, Lt. Eames is unable to recount any of his experiences while eluding capture, under penalty of court-martial. So important is this military secrecy that he is not allowed to discuss what identity he used, where he landed or how he managed to evade the Germans for five long months, while they instituted an intensive search for the crew of the destroyed bomber. Nine of them have now returned safely and only one is missing.

Lt. Eames was a co-pilot by choice. Given opportunity to have his own plane, he chose to remain with the men with whom he had flown over from the States. This had been their eighth long-range mission together.

His mother, Mrs. Alice Eames, died shortly after he left home.

His brother, Ralph D. Eames, 23, a pilot in the Air Transport Command, yesterday was reported from his base in England as shot down over Holland. The next release announced that although his troop transport had been brought down, he had managed to return to his base within 31 hours, bringing his entire crew back with him.

His sister, Miss Phyllis Eames, was operated on today for appendicitis. Given the news about both her brothers before the operation, she promised she would be well in a week. "It's the finest medicine I could have," she exclaimed.

Lt. Eames and Miss Maddocks decided to hold up their marriage until Nov. 12 when Phyllis will be well enough to be a bridesmaid. They had been planning to wed Nov. 5. They had planned to be married on that date last year when he was sent overseas.

Another sister, Mrs. Frederick Hartford (Barbara Eames) of Hyde Park, was scheduled to leave the hospital today after having given birth to a daughter.

Lt. Eames, graduate of Hyde Park High School, is a former member of the 26th Tank Company, Massachusetts National Guard.

4 Doctors, 9 Nurses Await Philly Quads

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1 (INS)—Lying-In Hospital doctors awaited birth of quadruplets today.

The expectant mother, Mrs. Joseph Cirimello, 30, of Upper Darby, thinks she is going to have twins, but the X-ray pictures tell a different story.

The babies will be delivered by Caesarian operation. Four doctors and nine nurses will attend Mrs. Cirimello. Four incubators stand by for the infants.

Quadruplets occur only once in 658,503 births.

The Cirimellos have been married six years.

STICKER DRIVE NETS AUTOISTS BY HUNDREDS

Patrolling every important highway in the State, police and registry officials stopped thousands of cars today in a campaign to find those motorists who failed to have their autos inspected before last night's deadline.

Hundreds were reported without stickers and all were summoned to appear in court beginning tomorrow.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King said the entire corps of inspectors and examiners, 150 in all, had been assigned to the drive. Police of all cities and towns in the State joined in checking traffic.

Cambridge reported more than 100 summonses were issued in the first few hours of the drive.

Registrar King warned that failure to have cars inspected made the owners liable to a maximum fine of $25. He said the campaign will continue.

Wolfe's wife, a former Viennese actress, was beaten to death with a metal-tipped shoe Dec. 30 in a Brooklyn hotel.

The 37-year-old Canadian whose utterances were often incoherent during the trial, stood with a Bible in his hand when the jurors were polled individually for their verdict.

McGrath on Stand, Tells Of Frances' Last Meal

BROCKTON, Nov. 1—Controlling his emotions with obvious effort, John J. McGrath, father of 10-year-old Frances McGrath who was slain in Scituate last June, today took the stand in Plymouth Superior court and told of his daughter's supper the night she disappeared.

He was the first defense witness called in the trial of Jack Lopes and Mrs. Bertha Pina of Scituate, charged with conspiring to conceal information about finding the child's body in a Norwell woodland.

Speaking slowly and deliberately, McGrath said his daughter ate frankfurts and beans at the last meal in her parents' home. He said he was "not sure" whether she had pickles or raisin bread.

He was questioned by Atty. John Mahar of the defense legal staff. The questioning about Frances' meal followed the statement of a State pathologist that frankfurts, raisins and pickles were found in the child's digestive organs, indicating she had been killed before the food could be digested.

In a surprise move, Defense Atty. Antonio D. Cardozo asked that Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing take the stand as a defense witness. He said he wanted to show that Dewing received information about the child's death from him (Cardozo) speaking in behalf of his client, Lopes.

Judge Charles C. Cabot called a recess to consider this unusual request and took under advisement Dewing's offer to make a statement in lieu of taking the stand.

In opening for the defense, Atty. Mahar announced he would not place either of the defendants on the stand. He said they could not add to the statements made to police and erud into the record by State Police Stenographer George A. Kenney.

The state had rested after police witnesses testified that the defendants admitted finding Frances' body while they were keeping a love tryst in the woods. Police said they admitted withholding the information for three days for fear that their illicit romance would be revealed.

Detective Injured On Duty Retires

A member of the police force for 15 years, he spent the past seven years as a member of the narcotic and pickpocket squads.

Vandals Busy On Halloween

Although youngsters were given parties in all sections of the city, Boston experienced one of its most damaging Halloweens in many years.

More than 300 street lights were broken, signs ripped off and property smeared with paint, while fire alarms reached a total of 137. Fire engines were on the jump for many hours, answering 35 false alarms and extinguishing dozens of rubbish fires lighted in the streets by young celebrators.

A total of 46,000 youngsters attended parties in church and halls through funds of the now defunct Boston Junior police, but many of them apparently found time to do a little extra celebrating en route home.

Weighing scarcely more than two pounds when found, the infant was rushed to the hospital here and placed immediately on a diet of mother's milk. Physicians reported the baby is normal and in healthy condition.

government, and that in his opinion I am best qualified to become the next governor of Massachusetts.

"As lieutenant governor in the past six years I have had an important part in the achievements of the Saltonstall-Cahill administration."

Lt.-Gov. Cahill will be one of the principal speakers at the Dewey-for-President rally in Boston Garden this evening.

Mayor Tobin speaks tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the City Municipal Building, Roxbury, at Morton Plaza, Wellington Hill st., Dorchester, at a meeting of the Sportsmen's Club in Hotel Bradford, at Malden High School, and at Bond Hall in Watertown. The mayor will also be present at a tea and reception in honor of Mrs. Tobin in Robert Gould Shaw School, West Roxbury.

Governor's Councilor Clarence A. Barnes, Republican nominee for attorney general, today charged former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly, is a "political hatchetman who in the past has spared neither members of his own party nor of the opposition."

"Democrats should have no difficulty in recalling his treatment of their leaders," he said.

"Kelly always conducts the same type of campaign no matter whether it be a primary or election, no matter what office he runs for, no matter who he runs against. His opponent is always branded as an enemy of the aged, of the veteran, and as a millionaire."

"His antics are so well known to the people of his own party that they repudiated him in his primary contests for governor in 1938, in 1940 and in 1942. The exalted position of attorney general must not be placed in the hands of such a person."

Kelly today criticized the Republican controlled Legislature for its failure to enact a law for payment of a bonus to World War II veterans.

"The state paid a bonus to World War I veterans and in all justice should extend similar benefit to those now fighting in the present conflict," he said.

In an attack on Councilor Barnes, he said: "My opponent was defeated for attorney general on four occasions in the past. His poor public record is so well known to the voters of Massachusetts of all political parties that on Nov. 7 he will suffer his fifth defeat."

"At the special session of the Republican controlled Legislature in April, I publicly asked the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate to keep both branches of the Legislature in session until they approved legislation which would assure the payment of a state bonus to all honorably discharged veterans of World War II, and to appropriate sufficient money for proper hospitalization and rehabilitation for returning veterans."

"The Legislature rejected my request. At that time, by opponent, Mr. Barnes, was strangely silent, although now he tries to make the veterans believe he is their friend by stating he will establish a department within the office of the attorney general to advise and counsel returning veterans."

"Why did my opponent wait until October to repeat the promise I made on June 12, 1944, that as attorney general, Francis E. Kelly would definitely establish a department to protect and advise returning veterans?"

"My opponent had the opportunity to aid the veteran last April but refused to do so."

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I receive a government pension check monthly because my husband was killed in action. Our child was born shortly after my husband died. Will the government provide a pension for her? B. E., Melrose.

A—Yes. Send a certified copy of child's birth record to the Veterans Administration, Federal Bldg., Boston, explaining your reasons for submitting it.

Q—My son is a prisoner of war, interned in Germany; will my family allowance be discontinued now? S. A., Marlboro.

A—No, you will continue to receive it.

Q—I receive family allowance from my son, and so does his wife. She works, but I am told that if I go to work I will lose mine. Appreciate if you would advise me on this question? J. C., Wellesley.

A—Family allowance is paid to the wife of a soldier regardless of whether she is dependent on him or not; therefore she has a right to work. It is paid to the mother of a serviceman only when the fact of her dependency for either chief or substantial support is established by certificate. If your earnings were large enough to cover your expenses the government allowance could not be paid you.

Q—What is the status of Limited Service men in the Demobilization Bill. I refer to a soldier who has been in the Army for over a year. He was placed in Limited Service due to leg conditions. He has been assigned to office and clerical work. Would appreciate any information on plan to demobilize these men? Providence.

A—Made inquiries again at First Service Command Hq. in hopes of getting some definite information on demobilization plan that will be put into operation eventually by War Dept. However, they are at a loss to explain what procedure will be followed. Several plans have been suggested, but no positive action taken, mostly rumors being circulated.

Q—I have four brothers in the service. Three of them have been home on leave, but the fourth, the youngest, has been away for 3½ years. He was 18 when he enlisted. We would be grateful if we could see him again, as he never had a furlough since he joined. We believe he is now somewhere in the Pacific, and you think there is chance for him to get home? L. O., Dorchester.

A—He certainly deserves a furlough and rest after 3½ years. We can only go by what the War Dept. states that under the rotation plan, and if the soldier can be spared, they are sent home for a 21 day period. His length of service entitles him to that needed vacation. Only thing you can do is keep hopes high and he may surprise you by an unannounced visit.

(Questions submitted Veterans Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, will be answered in this daily column.)

"The people of Massachusetts cannot live on a state program of public works," he said. "They must have real jobs at good wages. These jobs can be created by a courageous governor who will build up our port facilities in Massachusetts Bay, extend our highways and construct airports in all sections of the state."

"We must plan for a state government which will assist small business and encourage the establishment and growth of new ventures of private enterprise."

"We must encourage the full development of the fishing industry in Gloucester, New Bedford and Boston. If we work together for the welfare of both labor and business, we will have a peacetime Massachusetts from which mass unemployment will be banished."

Lt. Gov. Cahill, the mayor's Republican opponent in the contest for governor, said today: "Gov. Saltonstall has repeatedly and publicly stated that I revolutionized the office of lieutenant governor, making it an important part of the machinery of state government, and that in his opinion I am best qualified to become the next governor of Massachusetts."

Q—My son is a prisoner of war, interned in Germany; will my family allowance be discontinued now? S. A. Marlboro.

A—No, you will continue to receive it.

Q—I receive family allowance from my son, and so does his wife. She works, but I am told that if I go to work I will lose mine. Appreciate if you would advise me on this question? J. C. Wellesley.

A—Family allowance is paid to the wife of a soldier regardless of whether she is dependent on him or not; therefore she has a right to work. It is paid to the mother of a serviceman only when the fact of her dependency for either chief or substantial support is established by certificate. If your earnings were large enough to cover your expenses the government allowance could not be paid you.

Q—What is the status of Limited Service men in the Demobilization Bill. I refer to a soldier who has been in the Army for over a year. He was placed in Limited Service due to leg conditions. He has been assigned to office and clerical work. Would appreciate any information on plan to demobilize these men? Providence.

A—Made inquiries again at First Service Command Hq. in hopes of getting some definite information on demobilization plan that will be put into operation eventually by War Dept. However, they are at a loss to explain what procedure will follow. Some plans have been suggested, but no positive action taken, mostly rumors being circulated.

Q—I have four brothers in the service. Three of them have been home on leave, but the fourth, the youngest, has been away for 3½ years. He was 18 when he enlisted. We would be grateful if we could see him again, as he never had a furlough since he joined. We believe he is now somewhere in the Pacific, do you think there is chance for him to get home? L. O. Dorchester.

A—He certainly deserves a furlough and rest after 3½ years. We can only go by what the War Dept. states that under the rotation plan, and if the soldier can be spared, they are sent home for a 21 day period. His length of service entitles him to that needed vacation. Only thing you can do is keep hopes high and he may surprise you by an unannounced visit.

Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

Bricker in Drive For Home State

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1 (AP)—Gov. Bricker, starting the last lap on a campaign trail which he hopes will lead to the Vice-Presidency, concentrated today on trying to sew up his home state's 25 electoral votes for the Republican cause.

After delivering six speeches, including an address over an all-Ohio radio network from Toledo tonight, he will head eastward tomorrow on a 2,500-mile trip into Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

The Toledo speech will be devoted primarily to asking a two-year extension of Republican control of the Ohio State government.

The last phase of his campaign calls for 16 speeches, two of them for nationwide broadcast from Paterson, N. J., Thursday night and Philadelphia Friday night.

Truman Starts On Last Swing

WITH TRUMAN EN ROUTE TO PARKERSBURG, West Va., Nov. 1 (AP)—Sen. Truman set out today on the last lap of his vice-presidential campaign, carrying with him the public endorsement of Vice-President Wallace, with whom he shared the cheers of thousands of members of New York's Liberal party.

Gov. Warren III, Must Cease Campaigning

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 1 (AP)—The return of California's Gov. Earl Warren to the hospital for a checkup on a kidney infection makes unlikely his further campaigning for Gov. Dewey in the shortening presidential race, says Vern Gossage, press secretary to the Governor.

First Returns

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 1 (AP)—Three Kentuckians hold the honor of casting the first civilian votes of the general election in Erie county.

The out-of-staters, using absentee ballots, told reporters they voted for Gov. Dewey for President. They asked that their names be withheld.

40,000 to Hear F. D. at Fenway Park

Democratic State Committee Chairman William H. Burke, Jr., announced today that an audience of 40,000 is expected at Fenway Park Saturday night when President Roosevelt will deliver a major-campaign address as the highlight of his visit to Massachusetts.

Burke estimated that close to 1,000,000 Massachusetts voters will see the President, who is scheduled to arrive in Boston at 3 p. m. aboard his special train.

Explaining cancellation of original plans to use Boston Garden, with a seating capacity of 12,000 for the big Democratic rally, Chairman Burke said that "owing to thousands of requests for tickets, the White House agreed to use the Foster American League baseball park."

En route to Boston, President Roosevelt is scheduled to make a platform appearance in Bridgeport, Ct., at 10 a. m. Saturday. His next stop will be at Hartford at noon for a three-minute speech before he leaves for Springfield by automobile.

The President is scheduled to return to his train at Springfield and will have dinner aboard while traveling to Boston.

Lives Wasted, Landon Avers

HARRISBURG, Ill., Nov. 1—Reckless promulgation of the Morgenthau plan for postwar vengeance—the reduction of Germany to a backward agricultural state—has already cost the lives of thousands of American soldiers and will cause the needless sacrifice of thousands more.

This was the charge hurled by Alf M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and Republican candidate for President in 1936.

One not remains for the President to do to reduce the effect of the blunder, Landon said, and that is to repudiate the plan by dismissing Morgenthau from his cabinet.

U. S. Gets Helluva Swell Ideal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The letter, addressed simply to "boss of the guns, Navy Department," caused quite a stir when it was opened by the office of inventions here.

"My ideal is swell," the Navy's correspondent began. "You attach a hell net, a great big one, to a couple torpedoes. You aim 'em at a but battlefield."

"They run after she and catch up. Then the torpedoes catch in the net and back."

"I hope you use my swell ideal as I thought it for a helluva long spell. For freedom, liberty and our good old U. S. A."

"A PATHETIC SITTEN."

The self-paroled submarine trap was only one of the thousands of suggestions which have been received by the office since Pearl Harbor. Lt. (jg.) R. E. McCord discloses in an article in "Shipmates," publication of the United States Naval Academy Alumni Ass'n.

ELY'S SUPPORT OF DEWEY ELATES GOP

Already jubilant over the Truman-Walsh Democratic party split, Massachusetts Republicans were further heartened today by the unqualified endorsement which Joseph B. Ely, former Democratic Governor, gave to the Dewey-Bricker ticket.

Bolting his party over the fourth term issue, Ely, in a radio address sponsored by the Republican State Committee, asserted: "I shall vote for Dewey and Bricker. With me, it is the U.S.A. against the PAC."

The former governor, who placed the name of the late Alfred E. Smith in nomination for president on the Democratic ticket in 1932, charged that Mr. Roosevelt, in his campaign against Dewey, was throwing stones "from his glass house of broken promises."

He said he was a Jeffersonian Democrat. "What once was the Democratic party," he continued, "has been taken over, lock, stock and barrel by a coterie of totalitarian Socialists, city bosses, Communists and disciples of a disciplined—polite word for regimented—democracy."

"For me to give them my vote or lip service would be either the sheerest hypocrisy or a cross sentimentality and could be motivated only by political expediency."

Ely said those who favor a fourth term are supporting an idea of government under which the people are the children of the state.

"The fundamental principle of American democracy, according to my beliefs, rests upon the theory that our office holders are our servants and not our masters."

Lashing out against the fourth term, Ely warned that 16 years in the White House was the path to dictatorship.

"The New Deal has found it necessary, in the execution of laws, to centralize in Washington the power to control, regiment and license business, agriculture and labor. These policies make the individual subservient to bureaucratic bosses, political bosses and labor bosses," the former governor asserted.

"The President, by this concentration of power, has acquired a vast army of dependent satellites who must work for his continuance in office in order to keep their position. Congress is helpless. The machine is too big and too powerful for Congress to overcome. Only the people can save us."

Klan Witness Tells Of Truman Speech

By ROBEY PARKS AND DAVID SENTNER

Special to Boston Evening American

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—Another volunteer witness was added today to the roster of those who swear they saw and heard Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, at a mammoth rally of the Ku Klux Klan in Crandall's pasture, near Independence, Mo., in 1922.

He is Louis H. Denton, city engineer, who maintains he has known Truman for many years and could not be mistaken.

Denton places Truman as the principal speaker at the Klan rally which ran through a Sunday afternoon and into the night.

Truman, through the underground Klan grapevine, was advertised for weeks before as the principal speaker at this Klan gathering, according to Denton, and the roads were choked with traffic, directed at the crossroads by hooded Klan-men.

At the rally where Truman made his speech from an improvised dais, according to Denton, there were the usual oratorical outbursts attacking Jews, Catholics and colored Americans.

Truman was quoted by Denton as declaring: "I am not a 100 per cent American; I am a 101 per cent American."

Truman was slipped into the Klan "by the backdoor" in order to gain political support for his candidacy for county judge of Jackson County, according to statements by former klansmen, later denouncing it when Boss Tom Pendergast, Truman's sponsor and head of the corrupt Kansas City political machine, suggested this affiliation would cost him plenty of votes.

Another affidavit by Harry Hoffman, Klan organizer and former marshal of Jackson County, declared he was one of a secret committee of klansmen which swore Truman into the hooded order in a special Sunday morning session at the Baltimore Hotel in Kansas City in June, 1922.

Smart Set Party for the Ettings

By BETTY ALDEN

IT IS always a social occasion when one of the famous Braggiottis visits Boston, former home of the seven socialite brothers and sisters who have made names for themselves in the world of art, music and literature. And next week's visit of Gloria Braggiotti, former dancer, and her husband Emilen Etting, painter and Harvard graduate, will be no exception.

Mrs. Wm. D. Sohler and Mrs. Robert Lovett, co-chairmen of American Relief for France, are making elaborate plans to entertain the couple before and after Mr. Etting's lecture Nov. 8 at the Institute of Modern Art to benefit the relief organization. He is the first eyewitness of the liberation of Paris to speak here on that historic event. He was with Gen. LeClerc's Armored Division, first group to enter the city, and on the sound truck that broadcast instructions to the liberated people.

After the lecture there will be a tea and reception at the Institute and that evening a dinner party attended by prominent socialites.

Mrs. Robert Hall Garritt, wearing gardenias on her Persian coat and a fuchsia trimmed feather hat, celebrated her birthday at the opening of "In Bed We Cry" at the Wilbur starring Ilka Chase in a dramatization of her own best seller. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Beebe and Mr. and Mrs. Webb White were in a front row four-some, the ladies exclaiming over the ravishing gowns worn by Miss Chase and her feminine associates in the play.

A timely pre-election discussion of the subject "Which Party Will Do the Better Job on Foreign Policy" will feature the first luncheon this season of the Foreign Policy Ass'n, Saturday, at 12:45 in the Copley Plaza, Rep. Christian A. Herter and Rep. J. William Furbright will be the speakers.

DEWEY HAS FACTS

THE AMERICAN people expected a vigorous and convincing campaign from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and they are getting it, and they LIKE it.

The New Deal Administration likewise expected a strong and SUCCESSFUL campaign from Gov. Dewey. That is why so many New Dealers infiltrated into the Republican Party before the nominating convention, hoping a less formidable Presidential candidate would emerge.

It is unnecessary to say that the New Deal Administration, although getting what it anticipated from Gov. Dewey, does NOT like it.

It especially does not like campaign speeches of the type Gov. Dewey made in St. Louis.

"THE NEW DEAL has been taken over by the combination of corrupt big city bosses, Communists and fellow travelers," he said.

The people know that is the truth, and SO DOES THE NEW DEAL.

Earl Browder and his Communist Political Association are holding ONE coat-tail of the New Deal.

Sidney Hillman and his Political Action Committee are holding the OTHER.

And there are only two tails to the coat.

"Ten million heroes will be coming home, entitled to the fruits of victory—a prospering country with security and opportunity to get ahead," said Gov. Dewey.

"Is the tired and quarrelsome New Deal ALL America has to offer?" he wondered.

"Must we go back to leaf raking and doles?"

"Must our returning heroes go on the me old WPA?"

The American people know this is the real issue of the campaign, and SO DOES THE NEW DEAL.

"For 12 years," said Gov. Dewey, "the NEW DEAL has treated us to constant bickering, quarreling and back-biting by the most spectacular collection of INCOMPETENT PEOPLE who ever held public office . . ."

"The scars of its own failures and its own quarrels are too deep."

The people know this is true, and the New Deal knows it—but the New Deal does not like to have the people REMINDED of it.

BUT THE FACTS are in the record just the same, and Gov. Dewey is bringing them out—just as the people expected he would, and as the New Deal FEARED he would.

"What kind of a government is this that EVEN A WAR cannot make it sober down and go to work?" wondered Dewey.

"Our country cannot AFFORD THE WASTEFUL LUXURY of incompetent people in high places who spend their time fighting each other."

What kind of government SHOULD we have?

What kind of government does Gov. Dewey offer?

"This nation of ours can be an INSPIRATION to the world," he believes.

"We can be a steady influence for freedom and peace, but FIRST WE MUST HAVE PEACE IN OUR OWN GOVERNMENT."

"We must set OUR OWN HOUSE in order . . . by a fresh and vigorous administration which will RESTORE honesty and competence to our government."

GOV. DEWEY IS living up to the expectations of the American people, and to the fears of the New Deal—by conducting a campaign devoted to TRUTH.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—Your Mules & Men Department seems to devote itself exclusively to men. Let's have a little about mules. A—With pleasure. The mule is a very interesting animal. An Army mule costs $225, enters the Army at the age of five and retires at 20. However, no mules over 17 are sent overseas. An Army mule gets four pounds of oats for breakfast, 14 pounds of hay for lunch and four pounds of oats for supper. If he doesn't get his meals exactly on time he will kick the stable to pieces. Once a horse, a mule will not work until he drops. When he is tired he rests and nothing can bug him. Under fire horses get into a panic but mules remain calm. If a mule gets tangled in barbed wire he waits for someone to cut him loose. Under similar circumstances a horse will cut himself to pieces trying to get free. Mules have a great sense of humor. They plot lots of tricks on men. Not only that, they laugh uproariously when these tricks go over.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1944, by King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—There are among the Roosevelt political following some thorough Americans who support him even though they know that thereby they put themselves in alliance with the Communists.

Westbrook Pegler

They justify this on the ground that Communism can't happen here, forgetting, however, that Fascism or National Socialism has been happening throughout the Roosevelt reign and that the Communist program often calls for Fascism first and Communism later. Germany, yesterday, today and tomorrow is a perfect example of the development of this program.

In Germany, after the Communist revolution failed, the Communists supported Hitler and thousands of old Communists became Brown Shirts and were then known as the Brown Bolsheviks. They did this, under orders from Moscow, whence the program and party discipline flow to the Communist movement all over the world.

Later, Stalin made an outright alliance with Hitler and between them they divided Poland while the Communists of France betrayed their country in the factories by sabotage and in the Army by outright mutiny and refusal to fight in the face of the enemy in the drive through the low countries and along the channel coast.

As surely as Mussolini stabbed France in the back, these Communist traitors slit her throat and with greater guilt because, after all, Mussolini was an Italian and these Communists were, in the legal sense, Frenchmen.

GERMANY is now approaching the third stage, the triumph of Communism at last, after a long and horrible progress over a devious and bloody trail.

When the fighting ends, Russia, not Britain or the United States, will dictate the ideology and politics of Germany and the survivors of the five million or six million old German Communists will emerge as the new governing party.

Are Roosevelt, then, and Mrs. Roosevelt, Communists? Of course not. They are too fond of wealth, luxury and the feeling of possession, but they do love power and official privilege, the identifying attributes of the Fascist.

The Democrats of unquestionable American loyalty who are supporting Roosevelt or refusing to oppose him, the Jim Farleys and the Paul McNuttis, all know that Sidney Hillman and his Political Action Committee represent the Communist conspiracy in the United States.

They know Hillman went to Russia in 1922, saw Lenin, and came back here to organize the Russian-American Industrial Corporation with himself as president, soliciting stock subscriptions for a "sound investment for Russia."

They know that Hillman endorsed the appeal for the release from prison of a Communist firebug who then was turned out of Sing Sing by Charles Poletti, the interim New York Governor, just before Tom Dewey took office.

THEY KNOW that the American Labor Party which Hillman took over, an alien political parasite composed of naturalized but unassimilated unoneers, is a Communist political disguise.

And they know that the Political Action Committee borrowed organizers and managers from the Roosevelt bureaucracy in Washington and made frequent telephone calls to Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House to the office of Henry Wallace and to other New Dealers in Washington.

The release of Earl Browder from prison by Presidential order for the sake of "unity" in flagrant contempt of the grand jury and the trial jury, and the arbitrary order rescinding the writ of deportation against Browder's wife are known to all these Americans.

And they do not argue against the fact that both the Roosevelts have actively helped union politicians of the C. I. O., whose own colleagues in the organization never bother to deny that they are Communists, enemies of the United States and loyal to Russia.

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1—Some stylists may hail Maria Montez as the best dressed girl in Hollywood, but as far as the studios are concerned she is still the best undressed gal. She is to a couple of beads and a headdress what Dottie Lamour is to a sarong.

So when Columbia scouted for the ideal princess for "One Thousand and One Nights," Maria was the first girl that came into their minds.

The deal may be closed today for Columbia to borrow the exotic Montez for their $244,044 technicolor fantasy that already has Evelyn Keyes, Cornell Wilde and Phil Silvers in the lineup. Montez swears that after the war is over she will concentrate on roles which include full wardrobes. Another postwar plan of hers is to have a baby.

JOHN CONSIDINE is in New York arranging a new acting deal. Meanwhile he has cleared the rights through the State Department for his first independent fling, "The S. S. Grapichin," famed exchange ship that brought our war prisoners back from Japan. In addition he has signed a contract that put script writer Bob Considine (no relation) under contract for a number of movies. The first of which will be the Grapichin movie. Scripter Considine's last two jobs were "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" and "The Church of the Good Thief." He will continue as a staff writer for INS, writing his movie scripts in his spare time.

TWO TALENTED Hollywood youngsters, Kathryn Grayson and Diana Lynn, head tail on concert tours, but not together. Kathryn goes with the Oklahoma State Symphony Orchest-tra as soloist, on a short tour that hits Tulsa, Wichita and Oklahoma City. The Lynn girl flies East with Wynn Romora, her agent, for the premiere of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" and then they head for New York to arrange her piano recitals. These girls, who are fresh and unspoiled and who are such fine little artists, can do a lot of good for Hollywood on these road tours.

LANA TURNER'S kid party brought out 50 mature "juveniles" who had the time of their lives without a grownup around to mar the kiddies' fun. A special door was constructed which necessitated the guests crawling into the playroom on hands and knees. (Heard of guests leaving parties that way, Ida Lupino and Louis Hayward, looking very happy for estranged people, divorced at the Brown Derby and later Louis went shopping with her, the "unusual" boss may keep "Calvinity Jane" (starring Ann Sheridan's next picture. Since half the movie is supposed to be a stalling, Warners may move Annie to "Night Shift," if they held the Rose Bowl game this year, same as usual, Dennis Morgan is going to be the most popular guy in town. He's just bought a magnificent estate, three guest houses and a 14-room home, a stone's throw from the Bowl, and won't that be lovely for his pals to drop in to? Another blow for the baby-sockers—Farley Granger is now overseas; the Jack La Rue's celebrating their reconciliation at Charlie Foy's; Lon Chaney couldn't show up for Harriet Parsons night at the Canteen because of an accident. He was playing jackknife with his son and the knife landed blade down in his leg.

Delicatessen.

All that stir couldn't be caused just by New Yorkers; there must be a million visitors in Manhattan right now, and it seems they all want to eat, sleep, stroll, sight-see, dance and watch floor shows in the midtown sector.

Box-office men are going quietly (and happily) mad. Hotel clerks—but you know about hotel clerks, the poor things. Restaurants are jammed as early as 6 o'clock in the evening—which is by no means the standard dinner hour in Gotham—and just the other night I saw a line half a block long outside a little eatery place on W. 49th st. I'd never heard of it before, but to look at the queue, you'd have thought "Going My Way" was playing inside on a double bill with "Mrs. Miniver."

And Sunday night at the

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Mr. Sam Pryor, the big Republican from Connecticut who originally induced Clare Luce to go into politics—it just goes to show a man can't be too careful—attended a party here the other night.

His hostess was a lady I will not identify too fully, except to say that she is held in great esteem in certain circles, having been suggested as a possibility for Secretary of War by not more than Harold Ickes. There is some doubt as to whether Ickes meant to be flattering, but that's what he said, anyhow.

It is always a pleasure to see Mr. Pryor because he gets around a lot, even though he is resigned as Republican National Committeeman. I asked him what he had been doing lately.

"I am glad you asked me that," he said. "I have just had a most interesting experience with William McKinley."

Several of the guests backed away in alarm. One lady in fact took hurried departure, explaining to her hostess she had just remembered a previous engagement with Gunga Din.

It was too bad the lady left in such a hurry because Mr. Pryor hastened to put us at our ease.

"I am not referring to William McKinley, the 25th President," he said. "This William McKinley happens to be Mrs. Luce's butler—and I am almost sure that if he is evanescent he will not be replaced by anyone named Roosevelt."

NATURALLY we were pretty relieved because we did not feel Mr. Pryor should be fraternizing with the ghost of a President—even if said President was a Republican.

"I was a guest at the home of Mrs. Luce in Greenwich," continued Mr. Pryor. "Another guest was Mr. Joe Martin, the Republican, or minority, House leader."

"I am well aware that Mr. Martin is the minority leader," I said tartly. "But I understand he hopes something will be done about it."

"He does," replied Mr. Pryor.

Stork Club, Sherman Billingsley had to put a large party of nobility away upstairs in the Blessed Event Room!

AS LONG AS you're in town during the proper season, stranger, don't miss the ballet at the Met. And when you go, don't forget to stay in your seat during the intermission; roam outside, and up the stairs to Sherry's bar, and take a look at the types. There's no place like a ballet audience for types. Of course you must have heard that there are New Yorkers who would as soon strike their old grandmothers with a belying pin as miss a performance by Joe E. Lewis; who contend that he is the world's greatest comic and ought, in fact, to be President of the United States; and who have been known to hold duels at dawn in Lindy's with infidels who admitted a preference for, let us say, Ben Turpin.

IN A MOOD for a show? I recommend "Soldier's Wife" as having a perfect cast and a charming idea, as being in good taste and good humor, and above all hugely entertaining. Furthermore, it's one show on Broadway which you can attend without suffering at a single embarrassing line, gesture, or situation—and that's harder to find than you think!

By George Dixon

Tomorrow I shoot the mailman.

"Anything," went on Mr. Pryor, "was out of our careful how we talked in front of the servants because you never can tell these days how they stand politically. I have even heard reports that some of them are for F. D. R."

"This may be an exaggeration, but there is no use taking chances. Servants have been known to quit because their employers held opposite political views. And it is much easier to get a candidate for President than a good butler—all you have to do to obtain the former is draft him."

"We were very guarded all week-end about how we talked in front of William McKinley. Nevertheless Mr. Martin was afraid something may have slipped because, when he started to leave, the butler asked if he might have a word in private."

"The servant then drew the minority leader aside and whispered."

"Tell me confidentially, Mr. Martin, how is our side doing?"

MR. PRYOR added that William McKinley then turned back the lapel of his butler's jacket to reveal a Dewey button.

CHARLES P. SHAEFFER, public relations director for the Treasury Department, called today.

"I believe," he said, "that I have just heard the best understatement of the fiscal year, from June 1 to June 1, inclusive."

"A high official of one of our government agencies telephoned the Treasury to report he had just had a two-headed quarter wushed off on him."

"Then he added—what I consider phenomenal restraint—"

"Apparently it is a counter-fet!"

The official told Mr. Shaeffer he thought it was a case for the secret service. Mr. Shaeffer said he thought so, too.

Boston After Dark

A NUMBER OF "MOSTS" can be applied to the separation of the Humphrey Bogarts, which both Humphrey and his wife, the former Mayo Methos, say now will end in divorce... It is the "most-regretted" by the hordes of writers reporting the Hollywood capers of the film great... (Or so, with considerable frowns of sorrow, the tender-hearted scribes are declaring!)

IT WILL CERTAINLY be the "most-welcome" by a wide public tired to boredom of reading and hearing about the latest public squabble of the Hollywood hero-villain and his one-time actress wife... It is already the "most-publicized" separation since Mary Pickford decided that life was not worth much living with Douglas Fairbanks... But what makes it sad is that Humphrey's split out from his bride is the most incredible of any recent similar event... They love each dearly, and a right cross to the chin, by either combatant, has been featured repeatedly by the immediate follow-up of a loving closeup... Lending the interesting affair some local interest is the fact that Mayo, eastbound to a hideout of her own before the divorce step is taken, will end up (for a time) in Boston... This department being pledged to secrecy, it is up to the local news-sleuths—in case of any Boston interest—to unearth the colorful and irrepressible Mrs. B... On the dango from Hollywood's mass but glycerine consolation, Miss Metho—that was a Beacon St. de luxe apartment as her destination, after a brief detour in New York.

EARLY WINTER seems to be definitely upon us, and in the interest of science, this corner would like the time and space to conduct a survey of the effects of New England's handsome climate on neuritis, neuritis, neuritis, and sinus sufferers.

RESEARCH ALONG the lines of establishing the impact of atmospheric and weather changes on such patients was reported once by Neal O'Hara as going on apace in the U. of Miami, or was it Cincinnati? "The place for a Chair of What Weather Does to Chronic Sufferers belongs right here, in a factory to find truth like Harvard, Tufts or maybe Tech... You don't find a last Thursday, love-in-bloom-in-June variety, and a yesterday, plus the charming change we predict will occur within the next four days in the probable form of a north-east storm or blizzard—you don't find all that in Ohio where both of the above-mentioned out-of-state institutions exist)... Of course, there is Kiska, but it's early for chairs of research up there, from what the boys are writing.

"THE TWO LAURIETTES" (Dotty Lauriettes and her sister, Alene) of Lowell is a charming and promising dancing act when war struck... The kids went to work at once making parachutes... That we may be caught up on that branch of production is the hint to be gained from the news that the Lauriettes are returning to show-business, offering their services first to the USO... Against the Japs and Krauts our boys have even forced to hit the sack too frequently... And nice people like the Dutch, according to the communiques, are salvaging parachutes and turning them over to the Allied command.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1.—Walter Pidgeon took quite a while to click in pictures, but he knew he had made good when he got the girl. You've got to be the hero to wind up with the heroine.

Customarily, his girl in pictures is Greer Garson. There was "Mrs. Miniver" and now there is "Mrs. Parkington." He was Mr. Miniver and now he is Mr. Parkington. He would like to be in a picture in which the husband gets the little bling.

His next picture is "Week-End at the Waldorf." There he plays the role of a war correspondent, and he wins the girl. But it's a different girl for a change. He gets Ginger Rogers, who plays the role of a movie actress.

It took him a long time to be considered good, although he kept climbing in show business. There was the time he went on a concert tour with Elsie Janis, as her partner. After a successful tour they were booked at the Palace Theatre, where vaudevillians had to be to the king's taste.

Here he received his first notice. A hard slap on the face. The reviewer wrote: "Walter Pidgeon looks like an old Abe Lincoln, and is a graduate of a correspondence school in southern Iowa."

THIS DIDN'T stop Pidgeon, as his friends call him. After more years in vaudeville and musicals, he was signed to a Hollywood contract for musicals. He waited months for a chance to perform. Then one night at a party a director objected to his singing.

"You're everything I don't like in a man," said the director.

"What about it?" countered Pidgeon. The word battle continued. When it ended the director said: "You can have the lead in my next picture." Therefore, he went to work making his film debut opposite Dolores Costello in "The Mannequin." Four other pictures followed. He doesn't remember their names.

Molasses Treats

By MARTHA LEE

"SOME LIKE IT HOT, some like it cold, some like it in the pot nine days old." Pickle, indeed, but that's just how it is.

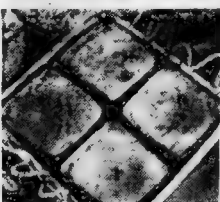

Especially in food do our preferences run the gamut of individual likes and dislikes. Take molasses, for example. Everyone likes molasses, but some like it light and some like it dark. And luckily, it comes in the two different varieties.

BAKED INDIAN FUDDING

5 cups milk 1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla or -
2/3 cup cinnamon and
2/3 cup dark molasses
1-3 cup sugar 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 cup cornmeal
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Stirred 4 cups milk. Cinnamon molasses, sugar, cornmeal, salt, butter or margarine and vanilla or spice and add to the scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly, over hot water for 20 minutes, or until the mixture thickens. Turn into individual baking dishes and add the remaining cold milk, but do not stir. Bake in a pan of hot water in a slow oven (325 deg. F.) for 1 hour. Do not stir during the baking. If the pudding is baked in a single casserole, two hours is required. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Serve with jelly and orange sauce.

JELLY AND ORANGE SAUCE
1/2 cup boiling water
2 tsp. thinly sliced orange sections 1 cup currant jelly
Whip ingredients together thoroughly and serve hot or cold. Candied citrus fruit may be used. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

You might try making this raisin pie just with the light variety of molasses—then with the dark and find out to which school you belong. But don't be surprised if you like it both ways—that happens, too.

RAISIN PIE

1/2 cup sugar 1 1/2 tsp. flour
1/2 tsp. cloves 1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup well beaten
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup sour milk or buttermilk

1 cup raisins, chopped
Combine first 7 ingredients and beat thoroughly. Add molasses, sour milk and raisins. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Pour in filling. Arrange lattice pastry strips on top. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) and bake about 30 minutes longer.

MOLASSES COOKIES

3/4 cups dark molasses
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ground cloves
1 tsp. baking soda
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
Combine sugar, molasses and shortening and bring to a boil. Cool. Combine dry ingredients and sift together. Add to molasses mixture and mix well. Drop from teaspoon in small mounds onto a greased cookie sheet at least three inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for about 10 minutes. Cool slightly before removing from pan. Makes 4 dozen. (1 cup coarsely chopped nuts, coconut or oatmeal may be added if desired.)

ROMANTIC CHARMS are the more merrier this season ... and pinned to your belt are provocative jewelry accessories. Full of meaning are the three pendants which CBS actress Lesley Woods collected for the antique silver chate-laine ... a heart-shaped lover's potion container from Italy ... a round scent holder from England ... and a memo pad and pencil of early American origin ... all suspended from a symbolic lucky piece of three interlocked horseshoes. —R. Good Fur Hat Lasts Longer

By BETTINA BEDWELL

FUR HATS are in style as usual, and picking out one to go with a fur coat is nice work if you can get it.

Milliners seem to have put their best talents into making such hats, which they certainly ought to do, considering what such things cost. However, the other side of the picture is that a good fur hat is going to last a lot longer than any hat made of lesser materials. Florence Reichman has made some of the nicest fur hats of the winter, and one of them is sketched. It is a small mink beret, with brown ribbon streamers down the back, and as such can be worn a great deal. Then there is a pearl and gold ornament that is hung over the forehead when you want to wear this model as an evening hat. This location is taken from the jewel placement a Rajah makes with his turban.

Hat Rules Silhouette

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THIS YEAR IT DOESN'T MATTER whether your hair is short, long or medium. But what DOES matter is that it be lustrous and sparkling bright ... a smooth frame hugging your head for the poised perch of the elegant hat atop it. This season the hat rules the silhouette. You must have pride in its wearing ... pride in its bearing ... which brings your tresses right smack into the beauty spotlight.

For how else is that flamboyant chapeau to be justified? A dull, lifeless head of hair would be an incongruous setting for a top of splendor ... and hats are just that ... a stunning focal wave to carry with it the rest of the magnificently dressed you.

Let's face it, girls! Wartime schedules and budgets don't permit any more of those weekly two and three hour sessions to having your hair "done." Meet it up in using our own three days ... scrubbing out locks and massaging our scalp to render the crowning glory a halo of sparkling highlights.

So it's good news that a famous name house is making available ... for the first time ... its exclusive cream shampoo ... a formula of scientific accuracy and artistic perfection used with astounding success in the past in their New York salon. Now your hair can have those lustrous highlights and shining sheen of women who step out of the smartest beauty nests.

EXCLUSIVE SHAMPOO

This sheen-tense cream shampoo is not a soap. Therefore with its use it is possible to rinse away all residue from the hair and scalp ... which means that the hair lustre and mellow sheen of natural beauty is not lost. Compounded of ingredients for which the hair has no affinity ... it logically leaves the hair thoroughly and lustreously clean. A fragrant-smelling smooth-spreading cream, it lathers abundantly whether the water is hard or soft ... affording quicker drying because it leaves no invisible scum on the hair.

If you've had trouble actually cleaning your scalp of the film which some shampoos leave on it ... you'll love on this brand-new product ... a salon exclusive now available for home use and handbox hair beauty. Find directions come with the jar.

For the name of this new cream shampoo, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, except the week-end, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridesmaids' Duties

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN,

Next month I am to be bridesmaid at my best friend's wedding. It is to be a large church wedding, and I am uncertain as to my duties as bridesmaid. Will you outline them for me, please? —E. J.

Your duties as bridesmaid must be listed as "charm" duties. That is, you are expected, of course, to look your prettiest. To adapt yourself graciously to all the bride's plans for your costume fittings and so forth, and for all wedding plans. To be attentive and completely co-operative, at the wedding rehearsal, so you will know precisely what you are expected to do at the bride's side. And this is more important than many bridesmaids remember it is) be charmingly friendly as you receive the guests in the receiving line, whether or not you know them.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Though I was not here Sunday, a very successful party for 40 disabled veterans was carried through by the members of the White House staff. These veterans came from the naval hospital at Bethesda, the Walter Reed General Hospital and the Forest Glen Hospital for convalescent men.

The arrangements were made by the Disabled American Veterans and the junior board of commerce, who are very active in all these hospitals.

The men were taken first to the Pitt-Rodgers football game, then came to the White House, where they saw the House and had light refreshments. I hope we can have these parties regularly from now through the holidays, and I shall hope to be here myself to greet them.

MISS THOMPSON AND I got back last evening, and as usual found considerable mail waiting for us. After talking for a while with the family, listening to Director of War Mobilization James F. Byrnes on the radio and walking the dog around the circle back of the White House, I settled down to work.

Today promises to be a fairly busy day. My first appointment is at 10 o'clock, then a press conference. In the afternoon I hope to spend a little time at the Naval Hospital, receive 40 French fliers, together with one or two other visitors, and finally have a young colonel and his wife to dine. He has been in our son's command in the European theater.

AMONG OTHER THINGS in my mail last night, I found a copy of the actual telegram telling about the young Russian woman who received the household kit which I had given through the Russian War Relief.

It sounds like an interesting family, and as though the 36-year-old mother had done a remarkable wartime job in managing a home and five children on the government allowance, with what little help the union could give her in addition.

If these household kits really do bring so much joy to the women and children of Russia, I hope we will go on sending them in increasing numbers, for it is certainly not very hard to do.

A great many people in this political campaign seem to be moved by the poetic muse. In my mail last night were a number of poems written by children, by men and women of middle life, by old ladies, and even by one of two elderly gentlemen.

Marty Killilea Honored For His Role in Athletics

By JACK CONWAY

I AM GLAD that my campaign for a dinner to end all dinners ended in failure. If it had succeeded, I would not be able to attend a testimonial dinner to Marty Killilea of the Bunker Hill Post of the American Legion at the Parker House tonight. Dan Foley, Jimmy (Seventy) Powers, Harry Kelley, Tom Green, Roy Green, Dan O'Brien, Mike McNamee, Johnny Wilson and Johnny Martin would also feel they had lost something in life if they did not have an opportunity to pay fitting tribute to Marty.

Killilea has been one of the most prominent sports figures in New England over the past 25 years. He distinguished himself as a ball player, later managed Johnny Wilson to the middleweight championship of the world, and then gained satisfaction watching sports events and seeing his Marty Killilea three fine boys, one of whom is now in service in France. Try to emulate some of the athletic deeds of their dad.

Killilea is known best for his feat of piloting Wilson to a victory over Mike O'Dowd for the middleweight title. When Referee Hector McInnis gave Wilson the decision in a bout staged by Roy Green's Fenway A. A. at Mechanics Building, the charge was made by Paddy Mullens, O'Dowd's manager, that it was a home town verdict.

Tex Rickard conferred with Killilea in New York in regard to a return bout between Wilson and O'Dowd to be staged in the New York Garden. Killilea signed for a guarantee of $18,500 which was the largest purse paid to a middleweight up to that time.

The bout was staged on St. Patrick's Day night. When Wilson left the ring he was still champion. He gave O'Dowd the most decisive setback of his career.

Wilson Underrated
WILSON WAS one of the most underrated of champions. When the big chips were down, Wilson was a big winner. He proved this fact when he won from O'Dowd in New York, when he stopped Jack Malone at Braves Field, and when he lost his title to Harry Greb in a close bout summed with action.

Killilea is on the staff of the State ABC Commission. While he has retired from active participation in sports and fight promotions, Marty is still a 100 per cent fan.

Killilea as manager of Wilson proved that if one has courage and vision and confidence in an athlete he can go a long way with him. When Marty first managed Wilson, the later boxed for as little as $400 but finally reached a point where his guarantees ran from $25,000 to $48,000.

"Lady in Red" Returns
TIE "Lady in Red" or one of her followers was at Rockingham Park yesterday and made a huge show bet on the Four Oaks Stable's entry of Transbest and Jackstraw.

There was $22,020 bet to show on the race of which amount $20,020 was on the entry. Transbest won, while Jackstraw finished third. The show payoff was $2.20. The minus pool topped $100.

Besides the entry, there were four other horses in the race. Slender Lady finished second. When Jackstraw tied, Transbest went on to win. It was the best spot of the meeting for a big show bet.

L. Gentry, who trains Transbest and Jackstraw, has one of the best managed stables at Rockingham Park. He has two men to care for each horse, while the thoroughbreds representing Four Oaks Stable have the best of equipment.

Dave Wilson continued to come up with winning selections. Dave picked six winners yesterday, Balm Springs, White Time, Pomona, the Four Oaks Stable entry, Janegri and Clip Clop. Dave had five winners the previous day which gave him 11 winners in 16 races.

Draft Huddle For Ball Owners

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's chief bargain hunters—the major league club owners—will huddle here today in their annual draft meeting in the hope of picking up another Grover Cleveland Alexander or another "Hack" Wilson at low prices.

The session will be held in the offices of Judge Landis, with Secretary Leslie O'Connor presiding in the absence of Landis who has been hospitalized for the past month.

This year 589 players will be eligible for the draft with the three double-A leagues—the American Association, the International League, and the Pacific Coast League—furnishing 340 active players for the draft price of $7500. Hundreds of others from lower leagues, as well as the "right" to retired players and service men, also are included.

FOUR BOYS GET CALL
Clubs may make one selection each in inverse order of their finish in their league races, with the National League eighth place team having the call over the cellar American League team in the Philadelphia today will have first pick and Washington second.

Although the roll call is repeated until all clubs have as many picks as they desire, limited only by the 40-player maximums, the draft has averaged only 14 men annually. In 1942, however, it hit 23, while the other extreme was reached in 1932 when only four minor league players were taken. Last year 16 were selected.

Long Practice for Brown Players

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 1 (AP)—Thirty-five members of the Brown football squad hustled through a long practice yesterday in preparation for this Saturday's clash with the Coast Guard Academy at Brown Field.

Coach Rip Engle excused his first team from heavy contact work, but sent them through a long drill on pass defense and in an intensive workout on signals and assignments.

With Charlie Tiedemann benched because of injuries, the coaches devoted time in a kicking drill to Sal Escudillo and Dick O'Leary, reserve punters.

The second and third team scrimmaged for team scrimmage for more than an hour. Frank Delzo, reserve fullback, was the standout of the session, as he broke away on several occasions for long gains.

Bruins-Hawks Opener For Disabled Vet Fund

By BILL GRIMES

One week from next Tuesday the Bruins will make their home debut of the 1944-45 National Hockey League campaign against the Chicago Blackhawks at the Boston Garden and the entire proceeds from that game will be donated to the Disabled Veterans' Fund of the Boston American-Record and Sunday Advertiser.

For three years the Boston Bruins and the Boston Garden have given unstintingly to various charities. During the 1942-43 season, the Bruins played four games for the American Red Cross. Last fall the Bruins opened their home season with Les Canadiens and turned the receipts ($22,000) over to the Community Fund. Later they played a game for the American-Record-Advertiser Disabled Veterans' Fund against the Boston Olympics and before a capacity crowd.

Since the start of World War II, the Bruins have donated more than $110,000 to charity and relief funds. Their first contribution was to the Army Relief Fund back in 1940 when they played an All Star aggregation of former N. H. L. players. Then they staged four Red Cross games, playing Les Canadiens, the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Detroit Red Wings and the Chicago Blackhawks, the best attractions in the league, enriching that worthy charity by over $47,000. They have also engaged in exhibition games for charity throughout Canada.

Manager Art Ross has started to rebuild his club. A year ago the Bruins didn't get into the Stanley Cup playoffs. Their failure didn't set well with Art Ross. He had begun to strengthen the weak spots. This week, he traded Pete Leswick to the Red Wings for Bill Jennings, a experienced right winger. He is angling for a complete new line. He is determined to give Boston a winner.

Before they come home to play for the American-Record-Advertiser Disabled Veterans' Fund, the Bruins have three more games. Saturday in Toronto, Sunday in Chicago and the following Sabbath in New York. If their opening had been played here, the Bruins would have started the season with a victory over Canadiens.

With the acquisition of six or eight new players, the Bruins will be a better attraction this year than they have been since the Kraut Line, comprised of Bobby Bauer, Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumont joining the Royal Canadian Air Force.

And, equally as important, the Bruins-Chicago tilt will be a 100 per cent charity game. The Boston Garden will not charge any rental, the free list will be suspended even to the hockey writers, players and employees of the Garden and every penny of the Bruins' "cut" will go to the American-Record-Advertiser Disabled Veterans' Fund, thanks to the generosity of Art Ross and Lt.-Col. Walter A. Brown.

$10,000 Hollywood Cap Opening Feature

INGLEWOOD, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP)—Despite gray skies and a threat of rain, thousands were expected at Hollywood Park today to welcome back horse racing banned in Southern California since Pearl Harbor. Main event was the $10,000 Hollywood Premiere Handicap at six furlongs. Twenty-five were nominated and 14 remained to start, though the weather and the slow track may chase some out.

Irish Coach Shifts Backs

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 1 (AP)—The Navy's V-12 training program had Coach Ed McKeever of Notre Dame in a dither all last week, and now it's got him worried again.

This time, his ace halfback, Bob Kelly, and his future status in the Navy is the problem. Last week it was Marty Wendell, defensive halfback ace.

Kelly has been awaiting a possible appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Thus far, it hasn't come through. If he gets it, he'll remain with the Ramblers the rest of the season. If he doesn't get it soon, he'll be getting orders to transfer to another Navy base.

"And that may be today, tomorrow or next week," McKeever said. "I need him this week against Navy at Baltimore. If I only knew whether he'd be with us or not, I'd have a better idea of how to plan an offense against the Middies."

Kelly has been his most consistent ground gainer and one of the leading candidates for an All-America backfield post.

McKeever did considerable shifting of his backfield in yesterday's scrimmage in preparation for Navy. Elmer Angsman was shifted from fullback to right half, sharing duties with Kelly and getting the feel of the post in case he has to take it Saturday. George Terlep took over left halfback, the spot left vacant by transfer of Chick Maggoli by the Navy. John Corbisiero, a freshman, took over Angsman's fullback spot.

Del Bissonette Braves Coach

Monsieur Del Bissonette has been appointed third base coach of the Boston Braves, and before you start yelping: "Who's Bissonette?" let it be said he's from Winthrop, Me., the town that gave Bill Carrigan to the Red Sox. And let it be added that he has made his mark as a minor league manager and will be much more of a help here than was the departing Tom Sheehan.

Bissonette first came into prominence as a pitcher with New Hampshire University, when it was "State College." Later, at Georgetown, he developed into a hard-hitting first baseman, and it was as a first baseman he made his reputation with Brooklyn under Wilbert Robinson. Del could hit, and it's apparent that his pupils can hit, too.

Bissonette spent the early years of managerial career with Glace Bay, Quebec City, Des Moines. The Braves grabbed him four years ago and put him in charge of their Bradford, Pa., farm. His club finished second, promoted to Hartford to take over for Jack Onslow, he finished seventh in '42, jumped to third in '43 and won the pennant this year, Onward and Upward in his motto.

Bob Coleman remains as commander-in-chief, humorous Benny Bengough as first base coach. That's a good heard of strategists. Now if the Braves can dig up an infield during the winter, the rainbow might appear at the Wigwam in '45. FINNEGAN.

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Only last Sunday, his 1944 edition of the Witches held a pre-Halloween celebration at the expense of Lynn Classical, running up the unheard of schoolboy count of 51-13.

FINE PLANNING JOB

Salem's three veterans were Capt. Joe Tassinari, now a starting guard; Lytle Smith and Art Sarkisian, tackles. They formed the backbone of the team that started its season with a victory over Lowell (2-0) and then continued undefeated against Newburyport (13-0), Lynn English (13-0), Marblehead (33-0), Everett (12-0), Manchester Central (6-0) and then Classical.

Here are two examples of just how well Coach O'Brien's plans have worked out. Tackle veteran Sarkisian was injured in the Everett game so that Henry Briggs took over. Now, with Sarkisian coming back, he has still to beat out Briggs, Mike Michypor and John Caron, a pair of juniors, to regain his starting assignment opposite Smith on the line. And behind Smith are Paul Gibbons and Fred Dominic, a junior and sophomore.

And that's how it goes

Emilio Bellau, junior, has a fine understudy in freshman Bob Shea, brother of Lennie, at quarterback while Don Poitras, a junior, has plenty to worry about with Don Goolsby and Bob Courtney, a freshman, shooting for his half-back berth. Even Louis Mroz, a famous name in Salem football, has Pete Jalbert, freshman, and Andy Konovalchik, sophomore, to jump him if he should slip.

Paul Bowser will offer two main bouts at the Arena tonight in his wrestling show.

These will pit Patrick O'Connor, the Irish artist, against Dr. Freddie Meyer, the wrestling dentist from Chicago, and Najo Singh, India, against Dr. John "Dropkick" Murphy, Acton osteopath.

O'Connor and Singh will be risking undefeated records against their doctor rivals and there's a strong possibility that both may be forced to suffer their first setbacks at the season's Meyer, a former Olympic champion, will be throwing a huge punch back at O'Connor when his match will be relayed on his speed and versatility to stop the lengthy stride of the Indian and his cobra hold.

Attendance at college football games has increased nearly 25 per cent over 1943, a national survey by the Associated Press showed today.

Reports from 72 colleges disclosed that with the season only half over an aggregate of 3,243,330 fans have ringed gridirons compared to 2,598,581 at the same period a year ago. This is an increase of 644,749.

The top percentage increase is in the southwest with 60.2. Turn-outs in the South have jumped 43.4 per cent; 28.3 in the East; 16.5 in the Midwest and 15.3 in the Far West.

Southern California, with a turnout of 195,00 for five home games, heads the list of 72 colleges. The University of Pennsylvania is second with 193,000 for four games followed by Ohio State at 182,306. Other teams, with 100,000 or better, include Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, Northwestern, California, UCLA and Pitt.

Two of the few schools to show a decrease from last year are Minnesota and Michigan.

Yanks Drill For Offense

Moral victories and hard luck have been left behind as the Yanks, keyed up after their initial league triumph at the expense of the Brooklyn Tigers, return to work preparing for their second New York invasion in two weeks—this time against the Giants.

This upset last week was not only a smashing upset victory for the players but an achievement for Owner Ted Collins and his staff, and for Herb Kopf in particular.

Theobald May Succeed Landis

By FRED HOEY

Rear Adm. Robert A. Theobald, recently retired as commandant of the First Naval District, and one of the most popular men in the service, may be named high baseball commissioner of baseball to succeed Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, 78 years old, who has been in ill health for a long period.

The naming of Adm. Theobald is expected to come at the next joint meeting of the American and National Leagues. Leslie O'Connor, very competent secretary to Judge Landis, for many years, has been mentioned for the post, but many of the magnates believe O'Connor, acting in Landis' absence, took arbitrary action on matters which vitally concerned their own particular clubs. Hence the gripe.

The former local commandant is a rare sport bird. He rarely misses a sport event of any kind. He particularly loves baseball and is conversant with its rules and regulations, just as well as the players, the umpires and the boys in the press box.

As one of those well disciplined Navy products, Theobald is a leader of men, a creator, a man with initiative and ingenuity.

The Admiral came to the Boston post from the Pacific sector. A native of San Francisco, Theobald was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1903. His varied career has included distinguished service at sea and in administrative posts.

In 1941 he assumed duty as commander of destroyers, Pacific Fleet. Since he assumed his local duties in February, 1943, Adm.

Theobald has endeared himself to every one in the New England sector.

The passing of Judge Landis as high commissioner of baseball has been in the cards for three years. Even though the eminent jurist took a drastic cut in salary when conditions in baseball were tough, there are some magnates who will never forgive him for his arbitrary action in declaring minor league players, who had cost these clubs small fortunes, free agents because of some baseball irregularity.

They can condemn the old Judge, but he certainly was on the level and don't forget he rescued baseball, following the Chicago White baseball scandal in 1919, when conditions for the future of major baseball looked decidedly black.

Brown Lacking In Guard Play

The lack of capable guards has created a serious problem for Coach Rip Engle as the Brown football team continued its preparation for its game with the Coast Guard Academy at Providence this Saturday.

"The absence of John Petropoulos, the veteran guard commissioned in the Naval Reserve," said Engle, "made all the difference in the world to the right side of our line. His substitutes were not able to plug the gap when Dartmouth started rolling in the second half last Saturday."
